"The United States should call a conference of the interested powers for the purpose of proposing to them this method of settlement, or one embodying these principles. The German indemnity would be fixed at the sum which was tentatively agreed upon at the Anglo-French eighth conference, $15,000,000,000,000, Germany to receive credit for at least $5,000,000,000,000 and for the territories in Africa and Aceania, transferred by her under the treaty to the allied and associated powers. This method of liquidation would enable Germany to at once begin to purchase from England, France, Russia and the United States what she so desperately needs for the rehabilitation of her industries.

To Purchase Cables

"The United States would then purchase from the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, or possibly, and I would go so far if necesary, for the full amount of the debts owed by the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, to the well-deferment the purchase from the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, to the well-deferment the purchase from the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, to the well-deferment the purchase from the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, to the well-deferment the purchase from the Allied and associated powers for at least $7,000,000,000, to the well-deferment the purchase from the Allied and associated powers to us, these marine cables and, these territories in Africa and in Oceanica transferred by Germany to the Allied and associated powers. This operation would give us liquidation, not by cancellation, but by substitution of valuable assets for securities of doubtful value."

United States Senator Medill McCormickrof Illinois, said:

"I shall not abandon one tota of our debt until disarmament among the nations in Europe has been accomplished and until we have assurance that the states of Europe will not fall back again to that condition which led them to the World War. Also, before there should be any talk of cancellation, they should destroy the restrictions and rivalries and jealousies which at present exist between the states and which prevent international commerce and travel."

for wars of the future."

Wishes Rivalries Abandoned

"It is essential that there be a settlement and that Europe return to economic reconstruction," continues Mr. McCormick. "They must abandon their rivalries abroad and desist from their adventures in Asia. There is bitterness between the nations recently associated in the prosecution of he war, and even neural nations have been drawn into the imbroglio of hatted and jealousy.

"Since the armistice Europe has spent money lavishly. Armies of functionaries have been maintained by the governments. In every way they have expended money far too freely for nations that are bankrupt.

"Part of the debt they owe us could be paid by territories and cables; not only those now held by Germany, but by the other countries also. There is no doubt that at present there is a strong discrimination against this country by those who control means of international communication. Fourfiths of the cable lines of the world are owned outside of the United States."

HETHER you spend a lot on your clothes or succeed in looking as if you did, is a matter of choice. But since it is a matter of choice, why not choose the less costly method of achieving a smart appearance? In other words, why not come here for your clothes?

You know, everybody knows, for they've heard it since childhood, that Best's quality is the best, that the fabric and finish and fashion of Best & Co. garments are exactly the sort every well-dressed person demands.

But there are still some people who cling to the theory that high quality must imply high price. Just how obsolete this theory is when applied to Best & Co. is evident in the items listed here.

They merit your consideration.
